Visual Component of the Project and Its Promotion.

Today I will tell you about the visual component of the project and its progress.

Our project touches on a very serious topic related to the war. We created fluorescent trees that can tell people stories of the war time. As soon as you enter the alley with these trees you will see a lot of light, which is the personification of peace. Now let's talk about how the trees themselves will look. Their trunk will glow in the same brown color, which will softly turn into green. The crown of the tree will glow in green, thus creating the naturalness of the plant. Approaching the tree, people will see a small screen that will be decorated in antique style and inserted into a painted frame. It is this screen that will tell you the stories of people of the war time.

Let's move on to another part of my story. This is the promotion of our project. People like to learn everything new that is happening in the world, the main thing is to tell it correctly. In the 21st century, people surf in social networks, which is why the emphasis will be placed on them. Promoters and the media will talk about the project in their social networks. They will show how our work reveals in detail the stories of people during the war, how unusual our project is.
